From the Pastor's Pen

As I write this reflection a couple weeks before June 7, no one is sure what the situation will be with regard to the pandemic and public Masses. It is likely that limited attendance and social distancing will continue into the future. We will continue to miss the routine which we so much have taken for granted, especially our face to face interactions with each other. Maybe an unforeseen effect of the pandemic will be the realization of how much we want and need the presence of one another.

In fact, that is one of the meditations that might come out of the celebration of the Feast of the Holy Trinity, which is basically about relationships. A simple way of expressing the Trinity is that God is the Father, who speaks a Word of Love, Jesus, and that Love is personified as the Holy Spirit. Of course it is easy to use this language, but in truth the Trinity is a mystery beyond our language and understanding. But one thing is clear: that if we reflect the presence of God to one another the only way is in the manner of loving relationships.

That teaching sounds so good and so true. And yet we might ask: is such a way of living possible? Certainly not all the time. The great saints seem to have realized this ideal much of the time. Yet every one of the saints would admit to human weaknesses and failures. When Pope Francis was asked who he was, he made the simple statement: "I am a sinner." We would all fit that same description. We all claim the name "Christian" and the name "Catholic." We all say we believe in the same Creed. We all say the words: "I believe in God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit." What we are professing is to be lived out in relationships, loving relationship. That's the way we are a mirror for the life of the Trinity.

Yes, it sounds so simple: just be loving to all the people we encounter. Yes, easy enough (most of the time) with regard to family and friends. But maybe not so simple when we are called to love "outsiders," especially those who can be so unloving and act in hurtful ways to us. Today we celebrate the feast of the Trinity and the reminder of how we make that mystery real and meaningful in our lives.

My prayers are with you each day.

Fr. Michael

Someone is Watching and Wondering

Today we celebrate Trinity Sunday. The Trinity is not simply a concept, rather it is a relationship between God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy. Through grace these three continually call us to participate in their loving communion. Essentially the Trinity is our belief that God is one in essence (GK ousia), but distinct in person (GK hypostasis). We believe that the Father, Son and Holy Spirit are distinct, undivided, yet completely united in will and essence. The Trinity is one God in three distinct persons. The divine persons do not share one divinity; each is wholly God. The Father is generative, the Son begotten, and the Holy Spirit proceeds the Father and Son (CCC 253, 254). I recently learned that to play the C cord on a piano, three keys/notes (C, G, & E) are played simultaneously. Three separate notes, one cord, one sound; yet each note remains whole in and of itself. This musical reality serves well as an analogy for the Trinity; hearing the C cord played allows another glimpse into the mystery of the Holy Trinity; three separate but equal, together one whole.

Perhaps reading the icon above will also help. (Icons are not considered paintings, rather they are referred to as written and read from left to right.) This icon is titled Troitsa (Russian for Triune or Trinity) and was created by Andrei Rublev. Here Rublev depicts a Trinitarian interpretation of Genesis 18:1-16, (three men visit Abraham and Sarah and promise the couple a son). In the icon the three divine persons are presented as three angels, with the same form and size, the same stave in their hands, sitting on the same type of throne, and clothed in the same type of garments. Taken individually, however, they are distinct. Rublev positions the central figure and the one on the left looking toward the figure on the right. Thus the angel on the left depicts the Father and the house rising behind him points to John 14:2: “in my Father’s house there are many dwelling places.” The house also symbolizes the hospitality given by Abraham and Sarah. The angel in the middle depicts the Son. The purple and gold of his garment represents that he is “the anointed one of God”. The tree behind the Son is both a symbol of the Tree of Life and the Wood of the Cross; the Son transforms the Cross into the Tree of Life whose fruits are passed to us at baptism, through the Holy Spirit, represented by the figure on the right. In Russia, the liturgical color for Pentecost is green (the garment of the Spirit), representing new life in the Spirit, the “Giver of Life.” At the center of the icon is an altar. We are invited to share in both the celebration of the Eucharist, and in what passes between the Father, Son, and Spirit. We are eternally invited into their relationship of love.

Your Sister in Christ, Sandy Gagnon

Welcome - New Members Of Our Church

Let me begin by saying how blessed I am having the privilege of walking the RCIA journey with so many people during my time as the director. This year has been especially poignant because of our separation due to the COVID19 pandemic. Unlike previous years where we welcomed our St. James Elect and Candidates as part of the Easter Vigil, we faced postponement this year, and were forced to schedule not one but two liturgical celebrations in order to accommodate participants, sponsors, Godparents, and family members given the current restrictions regarding number of people who can attend Mass.

As you can tell from the photographs, the liturgy and initiation looked different, but were both sacred and emotional for all present. Fr. Mike was the celebrant, Fr. Michael was the concelebrant. Deacon Chuck assisted, Cecilia Richardson lectored, Kristen Maggi cantored, and of course Danny Baker not only provided beautiful music but organized and oversaw the liturgy. I feel grateful and blessed to work with this team and thank them for their constant support, even on my bad days.

A second liturgy will be held on June 13 (the Vigil Mass for Corpus Christy) to welcome Dawn Shannon through Baptism, Confirmation and Eucharist and Debra Doering, Alison Iske, Katherine McDonald, John Palone, Megan White, Deborah Pokora, and Samantha Torres through Profession of Faith, Confirmation, and Eucharist. Although this liturgy will also appear different, I know Our Father, Son, and Holy Spirit will be present and bless all those being initiated with sacredness and strength. I am truly blessed to be a part of our continuing journey of faith, and hope to keep Mystogogy alive in our hearts.

On the Eve of Pentecost (Saturday, May 30th, 2020) we celebrated a beautiful liturgy to welcome into our Parish, Clint Bartlett, Bailey Basgall, James Crocker, David Dugan, Mariam Hess, Jeffrey Lair, and Chris Lonsdale through the Sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and Eucharist. We also welcomed Mark Basgall through Profession of Faith, Confirmation and Eucharist and Nathan Lair received his first Communion.
